FREE Hendrix/Maines Concert

by Bob Gray

Texas musicians Lloyd Maines and Terri Hendrix are headlining the free Coffee House series in the Kathleen Cailloux Student Center on Schreiner University campus at 8 PM Wednesday, March 2nd. And yes, all are invited, student or not.

The evening starts with an open mic from 7 to 8, featuring tributes to Best Buddies Month and Women's History Month. The Coffee House series, now a part of the university's Center for Innovative Learning, is sponsored by the Student Activities Center, Dr. Tobin Tilley, O.D. and Dr. Brett Ford, O.D., Hill Country Music in Fredericksburg, the Best Buddies program, and the Texas Heritage Music Foundation.

Terri Hendrix is famously talented as songwriter, vocalist and player of guitar, harmonica, mandolin, and papoose. Each of her four CDs, Wilory Farm (1998), Places In Between (2000), The Ring (2002), and most recent, The Art of Removing Wallpaper, has increased her fan base by shining the light of her mind on the memories and motivations we all harbor. Most recent national songwriting award was her Grammy winning instrumental, Li'l Jack Slade.

Lloyd Maines, a true Texas legend, started playing with Joe Ely in 1973. Named Producer of the Year two recent years in a row in Austin, look at the credits on the CDs you own. Chances are excellent that his name is on it as producer, or songwriter, or player – or all three. Lloyd produced Terri's most recent release, provided harmony vocals, and played the guitar, mandolin, dobro, steel guitar, papoose and banjo.

A Texas music fan can't get more Texas than this. Born and raised in San Antonio, Terri now resides in San Marcos and runs her own label and promotion company. Lloyd is from Lubbock, now based in Austin. His influence weaves throughout the Texas music scene for the past thirty-five years. You aren't going to get a better seat – a FREE seat at that – for Texas music, than this intimate venue on the Schreiner campus in Kerrville. For a night to remember, be in the Kathleen Cailloux student activities center at 7 pm, Wednesday, March 2nd.
